NOTHING LIKE IT

Its peculiar efficacy is due as much to the process and skill in compounding as to the ingredients themselves. Take it in time. It checks diseases in the outset, or if they be advanced will prove a potent cure.

No Home should be Without It.

It takes the place of a doctor and costly prescriptions. All who lead sedentary lives will find it the best preventive of and cure for Indigestion, Constipation, Headache, Biliousness, Piles and Mental Depression. No loss of time, no interference with business while taking. For children it is most innocent and harmless. No danger from exposure after taking. Cures Colic, Diarrhœa, Dysentery, Sour Stomach, Nervousness and Feverish Colds. Invalids and delicate persons will find it the mildest Aperient and Tonic they can use. A little taken at night insures refreshing sleep and a natural evacuation of the bowels. A little taken in the morning gives the appetite, cleanses the stomach and sweetens the breath.

FOR WHOSE BENEFIT

A PHYSICIAN'S OPINION.

"I have been practicing medicine for twenty years and have never been able to put up a vegetable compound that would, like Simmons Liver Regulator, promptly yet effectively move the Liver to action, and at the same time aid (instead of weakening) the digestive and assimilative powers of the system."

PIANOS.

GAINED FIRST PREMIUM FOR GREATEST merit at the New Orleans Cotton Centennial and WORLE'S Exposition for refined and wonderful power of tone, elegance of design, and superb finish. Only piano endorsed by United States commissioners, from each of the States. Cases finest carved, rosewood finish—finest imported double repeating action—three strings throughout of best patent steel wire—keys best ivory. Our new patent steel tuning device, instead of wood, is the greatest invention ever made in pianos. It consists of stationary STEEL tuning pins that are set in a mold and molten STEEL is run round the pins keeping them solidly in place. A thimble or shell pin is made to exactly fit the stationary pin revolving therein; thus the strings wind round the pins. After the strings are properly stretched the piano can never get out of tune, the rest plank being of STEEL not affected by extremes of climate. This will be appreciated by all musicians in city or country. It will stand twenty years without tuning and is good for 100. No other piano has this improvement.

Great strength and durability is another advantage. In other pianos holes are bored in wooden boards and tuning pins inserted. The pins turn round in this board and cannot stand permanently in tune, and it often cracks, splits, drys out, becoming utterly, totally and entirely worthless as a musical instrument. Our STEEL tuning device is in no way affected by such casualities, and the sounding board is so constructed that our pianos can never become thin or metallic in tone. They are always in tune and the expense of tunning is saved. This patent alone is worth millions and makes our piano the greatest in the world. Prices are no higher than other pianos. Buying direct from us, the largest manufacturers, you save $100 or $200—dealers' profits. Don't mind the ominous growlings of dealers and agents, who see their chances of selling a poor piano at a big profit of $200—slipping away—pity them.

We guarantee our pianos ten years. 200 styles. We have put our prices at lowest bed-rock for Cash.

A $600 Piano for $259.50; a $900 Piano for $297.50; a $1200 Piano for $375.50; a $1500 Piano for $475.50.

Upright Cabinet Grands, with stool and rubber cover shipped on board cars at S. F., to any part of the United States, Canada or Mexico. Our terms are cash with order. If not as represented money returned. We occassionally have good second-hand pianos, made over at $100 to $300, which we take in part payment for our own. Write or call for catalogue, free.

HORACE GREELEY'S GRIEF.

How the Great Editor Sorrowed Over the Death of His Only Boy.

Perhaps the most pathetic chapter in Mr. Greeley's life was the death of his idolized boy "Pick." His grief was almost beyond control. Margaret Fuller, writing from Rome soon after the failure of the revolution of '49 to her mother, says:

"Receiving, a few days since, a packet of letters from America, I opened them with more feeling of hope and good cheer than for a long time past. The first words that met my eye were these, in the hand of Mr. Greeley: 'Ah, Margaret! The world grows dark with us! You grieve, for Rome is fallen; I mourn, for Pickie is dead.'

"I have shed rivers of tears over the inexpressibly affecting letter thus begun. One would think I might have become familiar enough with images of death and destruction; yet, somehow, the image of Pick's little dancing figure lying stiff and stark, between his parents, has made me weep more than all else. There was little hope that he could do justice to himself, or lead a happy life, in so perplexed a world; but never was a character of richer capacity—never a more charming child. To me he was most dear, and would always have been so. Had he become stained with earthly faults, I could never have forgotten what he was to me when my soul pined for sympathy, pure and unalloyed. The three children I have seen who were fairest in my eyes, and gave most promise of the future, were Waldo (Emerson), Pickie, Hermann Clark—all nipped in the bud. Endless thought has this given me, and a resolve to seek the realization of all hopes and plans elsewhere; which resolve will weigh with me as much as it can weigh before the silver cord is finally loosed. Till then, earth, our mother, always finds strange unexpected ways to draw us back to her bosom—to make us seek anew a nutriment which has never failed to cause us frequent sickness."

Mr. Greeley himself, in his Recollections, says:

"I looked in vain through Italian galleries, two years after he was taken from us, for any parallel to his dazzling beauty—a beauty not physical merely, but visibly radiating from the soul. His hair was of the finest and richest gold: "the sunshine of picture" never glorified its equal; and the delicacy of his complexion at once fixed the attention of observers like the late N. P. Willis, who had traversed both hemispheres without having his gaze arrested by any child who could bear a comparison with this one. * * * When at length the struggle ended with his last breath, and even his mother was convinced that his eyes would never again open on the scenes of this world, I knew that the summer of my life was over, that the chill breath of its autumn was at hand, and that my future course must be along the downhill of life."

The following letter, which is undated, was evidently written in reply to one of condolence:

"Your letter, dear R., was written in your noblest spirit. I thank you warmly for your sympathy. What he was to me, even you can hardly dream; you that have two sons, in which the natural thirst of the heart was earlier satisfied, can hardly know what my one ewe lamb was to me. That he might live, that I might grow daily better for his sake, that I might not spoil him by overweening love, were ever recurring thoughts. God be merciful to me a sinner."—New York Tribune.

Umbandine, the Swazie King.

A beautiful young wife of the king's had in some innocent way displeased him. The order was given to smell her out, and the witch doctors did their horrible work. Executioners were told off, and they were sent out to the young wife to tell her of her sentence. She dressed herself in her best ornaments, and determined to appear before the king to say "Good-by." She had been the ruler's playmate and favorite sweetheart as a child, and she ventured to send a message to him asking permission to say "Good-by" to him. The king refused the request. Calmly preparing for death, the young woman disregarded the denial, and walked to where his "majesty" was sitting, drinking champagne. She said to him: "King, I have come to say 'good-by;' tell me why you are killing me."

The king vouchsafed no answer, and turned his face away. The poor woman proceeded to bid adieu to the other wives and girls of the monarch. They stood in a row, and as she walked down in front of them she said: "I am the first, but there will be more of you to come after me." Without another word she quietly followed her executioners. They led her about three miles from the kraal, across the Tillan river, and there hanged her on a low thorn tree. The reim by which she was suspended being too long, her feet nearly touched the ground, and strangulation was completed by beating the reim with sticks, the person of royalty being sacred to the common touch.—South Africa.

Mr. Bright's Speeches.

Above twenty years ago I was talking with Mr. Bright in the smoking room of the house of commons. He was going to speak later on in the evening, and he had a large roll of notes which he was looking through. "I never learned a speech but once," he said, "and then I did not remember it. But I consider that no one ought to address the house on an important issue without thoroughly getting the subject into his head, and knowing how he intends to treat it." "You write down some passages," I said, pointing to the notes. "Yes," he replied, "I do, otherwise I might say more than I intended." And then he went on to explain that his greatest difficulty in mastering the art of which he had become such a master had been to acquire the habit of speaking slowly. "You should not make pauses between words and sentences," he went on to say, "but pronounce distinctly every syllable."—London Truth.

Jenny Lind at Mount Vernon.

What old timer does not recollect the coming of Jenny Lind to our shores in 1850 and the extraordinary furore created by her singing? Of course I only know what I've read about it, but I remember one incident in particular—her visit to Mount Vernon. The great songstress had been deeply touched by stories of the illustrious patriot, and upon reaching Washington the first request was to be taken to Mount Vernon. When Col. Washington, the then proprietor of the estate, heard of her wish, he chartered a steamboat and made up a party, which, beside Mr. Barnum and Miss Lind, included Mr. Seaton, the mayor of Washington, and other notable citizens. The boat landed near the tomb and the party proceeded thither. The Swedish woman's big heart ran over as she drew near this sacred spot. From this point she was conducted to the mansion, where a fine collation was served. With child-like enthusiasm she gazed upon every relic of the great leader.

When the party had reached the library Col. Washington took a book from one of the shelves and presented it to her. Not only had it been Washington's, but it contained his book plate and his name written with his own hand. Miss Lind was greatly moved. She drew Mr. Barnum aside and requested him making some suitable return for the gift then and there, and although her watch and chain was a costly one and had been a present from a friend, Mr. Barnum had great difficulty in restraining her from at once bestowing it upon Col. Washington. "The expense is nothing," she exclaimed, "compared to the value of this book!" "Dear, good soul! I wonder where the book is now! No doubt in possession of her family and properly cared for as a priceless memento of Mme. Lind Goldschmidt's visit to the New World.—Book Lover.

Making Glass for Mosaic Windows.

But the glass worker has only begun his work when he has the molten "metal" simmering in his crucibles. It must undergo many subsequent manipulations before it is available for the purpose of art. Some of these, from a technical point of view, seem retrogressional. It has been found that the rich color effects in glass in the middle ages are largely due to the imperfections in the material. Its lack of homogeneousness, its unequal thickness, and uneven surfaces contribute largely to its beauty. The modern product is too uniform to be brilliant; it transmits the light with too great regularity. Intentional imperfections are, therefore, introduced into the process; and the products, in consequence, are much more satisfactory to the artist. This work of individualizing the product has now been so far systematized that several special brands of art glass are recognized in the markets.

The so called antique glass, in both white and colors, is made precisely like the ordinary sheet window glass, except that the surface of the glass is made full of minute blow holes, which produce almost an aventurine effect, and add greatly to its brilliancy. In the cathedral glass the surface is rendered wavy and uneven, so that the transmission of light shall be correspondingly irregular. In the flash glass ordinary sheets are covered with a thin plating of colored glass, a process which permits a very delicate color tone, and materially decreases the expense, where a costly glass, such as ruby, is needed to give the color. But in mosaic work it is now generally preferred that the glass shall not be at all transparent, since the effect is much richer. The most of the glass is therefore cast, the process being a repetition in miniature of the casting of rough plate.—Professor C. H. Henderson in Popular Science Monthly.

Stealing Letters.

I have never heard of a porcelain letter thief being arrested, and yet the offense is very common. The letters make the prettiest and most prominent window sign known, and have an advantage in being easily removed and replaced on another window. Also they are expensive on the original purchase, and somewhat luxurious in keeping up. You frequently see signs with prominent letters missing, and you immediately condemn the sign on the theory that the letters have been broken or have fallen off. This is a mistake, and if you notice you will see that all the missing letters are those in common use. They are simply stolen. The stealing business is one in itself. A couple of men go around at night, stand in front of a door or window, and while one watches the other quickly removes the letters he desires. There is some special process by which this is done quickly and easily. These letters may be used in other signs, or the thief may come around a few days later, notice the missing letters, offer to replace them, and actually put on your own letters. Of course you can't swear to this and he is safe, and you have simply paid him for robbing you.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Afraid of Spooks.

The Piegans, as a class—and we learned the same is true of Indians everywhere in the northwest—are exceedingly superstitious. Their bete noir is the evil spirit, and somehow the idea prevails in the mind of the average Indian that this same dreaded evil spirit roams about after dark and is liable to pounce down upon his victim at any time. For this reason the Indian will not travel alone at night. He is in dread of the wicked personage referred to and does not care to cope with him single handed. He is willing to travel at night if accompanied by others, and take his chances, but alone, never. When darkness overtakes him and he is on the tramp he stops, lights a fire and camps where he is until daylight. With the Indian misfortune and disease are regarded as the result of the displeasure of their deity. Death in some of the tribes in the great northwest is believed to be an unhappy, an undesirable change, and when it occurs they still live, although they take the form of some creature among wild animals. And so when this body puts off things mortal it enters immortality in the form of some lower animal.—Troy Times.

It was [illegible] and the poor animals seemed so [illegible] by the sudden attack that they were absolutely incapable of making any escape. A knock in the head was sufficient to settle them, and before night every person that could walk had his or her pile of dead seals awaiting transfer to the shore from Cape Derosiers and Lanse au Griffin to Fourillon.

In Gaspe there were over 4,000 killed, and one priest had 300 to his credit. Along the north shore, from Cape Tiennot to the Mingan Isles, there were 3,000 taken, and in the Esquimaux Isles the slaughter was fearful. On Anticosti the greatest number were taken at Point au Lepinette, where the shores are still heaped with the carcasses awaiting skinning and boiling down. The son of the lighthouse keeper at Point Cormorant killed 450 seals, and lost 100 of them because he could not get them ashore before night set in, when it became dangerous to go on the ice. In the Magdalen Islands and on the Bird rocks the killing amounted to 7,000. At Havre au Basque the inhabitants continued their work at night, the floes covered with seals drifting into the horseshoe like harbor and remaining there. At Grinshue the wonderful incursion of seals was a godsend to the people, who earned enough within a few days to keep them a year. In the Bird rocks the carcasses were piled up like so many bags of potatoes, and the people were opulent in their richness. There must have been at least 300,000 seen altogether, and the total number killed during three days reached over 150,000. They are not the fur seal of Alaska, but are valuable for their oil, and their hides are used for boots, trunk covers, etc. They are worth here $3 each, and the fat is worth $5 per hundredweight. Fishermen were sent from Quebec to the gulf, and an enormous number of seals were killed. Never in the history of the gulf have so many been seen at one time, and the more ignorant offer up masses as thanks for the godsend.—Montreal Special.

He Owned the Hearse.

He was nobody, a visitor in a country town. In the city he was somebody. He had exhausted the place so far as sight seeing was concerned, he had heard all the classics of the saloon, and he knew exactly the condition of the crops and the state of the farmers' stock all around. The inevitable oldest inhabitant had told him how when he came here twenty years ago, "this 'ere place where they wor a drinkin' had been covered with brush an' there worn't but one cabin for five miles around." Life was becoming very wearisome when a man with a long crape streamer flying from his hat rushed in to take a drink. Here was some excitement. It was a funeral. He joined the procession. He didn't know who was dead, but he looked just as sad and solemn as those who did. The procession wended its way to a little cemetery on the hillside. They all gathered around the grave, and as the service went on he found all the mourners eying him with a puzzled look. Then they began whispering to one another.

"Brother, I suppose."

"No. He don't look like him."

"One of them heirs come to see if the old man left any property, maybe."

Heroism at Home.

How useless our lives seem to us sometimes! How we long for an opportunity to perform some great action! We become tired of the routine of home life, and imagine we would be far happier in other scenes. We think of life's great battlefield and wish to be heroes. We think of the good we might do if our lot had been cast in other scenes. We forget that the world bestows no such titles as noble as father, mother, sister or brother. In the sacred precincts of home we have many chances of heroism. The daily acts of self denial for the good of a loved one, the gentle word of soothing for another's trouble, the care for the sick, may all seem as nothing, yet who can tell the good they may have accomplished? Our slightest word may have an influence over another for good or evil. We are daily sowing the seed which will bring forth some sort of harvest. Well will it be for us if the harvest will be one we will be proud to garner. If some one in that dear home can look back in after years, and, as he tenderly utters our name, say: "Her words and example prepared me for a life of usefulness, to her I owe my present happiness," we may well say: "I have not lived in vain."—National Presbyterian.

A PRESENTIMENT.

An Irish Soldier Who Knew His Masters of local or Day by Day—A War Reminiscence—Time to call attention—In the autumn of '63 Gen. [illegible] or Individual was relieved from active [illegible] unless paid for Army of the Potomac and [illegible] must accompany side assumed command, [illegible] not necessarily for was very unpopular with the guarantee of good loved Little Mac and who [illegible] be deviated from. gree of uncertainty in the new commander. There was LOCAL PAPER. discontent in the ranks in of this change. Added to [illegible] but unquestionable strategists at [illegible] clamoring for a forward even the most sagacious, regardless of time or favorable public spirited of the

In view of these facts, absolutely necessary that most communities be fought under the new equately to appreciate the greatest possible moment of the local newsbattle of Fredericksburg. On the day of that battle [illegible] of advertising climbed the heights on the southern [illegible] and augbank of the Rappahannock, [illegible] Fredericksburg, and halted [illegible] of the city summit near some heavy [illegible] published. we looked down upon the [illegible] and in every slender pontoon [illegible] upon its [illegible] and margin, [illegible] able portion our eyes to correspond [illegible] ready to just back of the city, frowning [illegible] to the cannon and breastworks and [illegible] Confederate soldiery, a painful [illegible] menance of powering sense of the impos[illegible] other movebefore us and the deadliness of [illegible] of outside dertaking in all its horrible [illegible] whom difficult to induce to subscribe money for the establishment of promising enterprises, but nevertheless contribue little or nothing to a means of greater importance and efficieney in the building up of their town—the support and improvement of its newspapers.

There is no question but that the newspaper of any town or city may be made the most effective possible agency in its development and prosperity. The efforts and influence of either individuals or organizations are at best but spasmodic and transient, but the newpaper works on steadily and incessantly. The individual agitator of the board of trade reach only a comparatively limited field of opportunity—only those to whom the particular effort may be directed; but the newspaper reaches out in every direction, and carries its influence to hosts of unknown and unsuspected watchers of opportunities. Among shrewd intelligent men of affairs, the character of every community is measured more by the standard of its newspapers than perhaps by any other single indication. With a little observation and experience a remarkably just estimate of the characteristics of a town may be reached by an inspection of its newspapers. If the community is a live, pushing, liberal one, the columns of its local newspapers will be found crowded with the advertisements of its manufacturers, its merchants and professional men. If these announcements are absent, the investigator will naturally set the town down as containing a slow, unambitious, unprogressive community. And without such support in a liberal measure no newspaper can do justice either to its town or to the ambition of its publisher.

It is quiet safe to assert that a newspaper is rarely found inadequately representing the consequence and enterprise of its community. The cases are exceptional indeed in which a community deserves better newspapers than it possesses, or in which local newspapers do not flatteringly reflect the actual character of the community. But to do this—thus to indulge a laudable spirit of local pride—they are very commonly compelled to make pecuniary contributions to the public good, far exceeding in volume what might reasonably be expected by them at the hands of scores of business men, who seem to feel that they have done all that is incumbent of the community, if they give the paper the support of a mere subscription.

It is a popular but probably fallacious impression that newspapers are just what their publishers and editors make them. They are not; they are to a very great extent what the business community where they are published makes them. They represent the character and merits of the community far more exactly than they do the energy and enterprise of their publishers or the ability and ambition of their editors. It is in the power of the business men of any community to push their local newspapers forward to a standard impossible of attainment by any effort of the publishers without their co-operation, and in no other direction can an equal measure of effort and experience be applied with any like equal effect in advancing the interests, not only of the community at large, but of the individual business man himself.—Industrial Journal.

"Bury the croaker out in the woods in a beautiful hole in the ground, where the bumble bee bumbles, the wood pecker pecks, and the straddle bug straddles around. He is no good to the city of push, too unpractical, stingy and dead, for he wants the whole earth and part of the crust, and the stars that shine overhead. Then bustle him off to the bumble bee's roost, and bury him deep in the ground, he's no use to us here, get him out of the way and make room for the man that is sound."

I. O. O. F.—An Instance of Fraternal Care.

Between thirty and forty years ago, Capt. J. G. Allender, then of Yuba City, Sutter county, joined Yuba Lodge No. 5, I. O. O. F. He was then a hale, vigorous man in the noonday of life. An ardent admiration for the tenets of that Order caused him to continue his membership throughout all the long years intervening up to the present time. He was and has ever been a man of great moral excellence and appreciated the value of that fraternity. Regularly he paid his dues and assessments and never failed to contribute to the relief of distress appealing to him. His health was perfect at all times until within a few years, and, until then, he had never been the subject of fraternal care. He had always been a man in good financial circumstances and was able to aid worthy distresses. But time waits on no one, and, in his inexorable march, Captain Allender was carried along into the "sere and yellow leaf," with which there came physical infirmities. Yet not then did he appeal to the brethern of his Order for aid. A few years ago, however, he met with an accident that permanently disabled him. Age enforced his retirement from business and his money vanished in the [illegible] of an invalid wife, and he then found it necessary to inform his brethern of his condition. Quick and without hesitation or investigation, old Yuba No. 5, answered the call. Capt. Allender was then and yet remains a resident of Lake county, but his faithful Lodge is constantly attentive and full of care. Lower Lake Lodge, No. 130, I. O. O. F., was instructed at the time of his affliction to spare neither money or care in their attention to that veteran of their Lodge, and carefully has Lower Lake Lodge regarded that duty. The old gentleman is monthly in regular receipt of that bread cast upon the waters of life many, many years ago, and much more, for affectionate enquiry is made into his condition and a sincere fraternal interest maifested toward him. The money paid him is not the stipend of cold indifference, but help gladly thrust upon him by interested friends. Such instances, thousands upon thousands of which remain unwritten, must convince the world of the great good there is in Odd Fellowship. Especially to a brother, it is limitless in its attention and boundless in its hospitality. It is gratifying in this instance to note that Captain Allender has been rescued from want through its ministrations and is yet in the land of the living.—Lower Lake Press.

How to Kill Gophers and Rats.

A Los Angeles county farmer, says the Chino Champion, has discovered that the little beasts of gophers love celery, and that putting poison on this vegetable and placing it in their way is a sure method of killing them. Asa Kimble of Chino says the poison should be put on what they are eating at the time; that is, if they are eating potatoes, put it on them; if trees, put it on the place eaten, and so on with any root, tree or vine they are destroying. An irresistible bait for rats is alluded to by the Washington correspondent of the Cincinnati Commercial Gazette as follows: An interesting, not to say valuable, discovery has been made by Capt. Weedin, in charge of the animals at the Zoo. The building is infested by rats, and how to gid rid them has long been a perplexing question. Traps [illegible] used, but nothing would tempt the rodents to enter. In a storeroom drawer was placed a quantity of sunflower seeds, used as a food for some of the birds. Into this drawer the rats gnawed their way, a fact which led the captain to experiment with them for bait in the traps. The result was that the rats can't be kept out. A trap which appears crowded with 6 or 8 rats is found some mornings to hold 15.

One Way to Lay a Ghost.

"Bill Skimmins buried his father in a most unhandsome way very near his barn," said the man at the other end of the table. "The neighbors thought it was a shame and made a good deal of talk about it. One of them thought he would punish Bill by scaring him, and laid in wait for him near his father's grave on a dark night. "As Bill went by on his way from the barn the man rose up as if from the tomb and exclaimed in a ghostly voice, "I'm your father, Bill!"

"Who said you warn't!" Bill answered. 'Git down thar inter yer hole whar yer belong!' and he struck him across the face with a bundle he was carrying, such a rap that the would-be alarmist carried the scars for months.—Lewiston Journal.

MR. JOHN KING, of Jackson, Miss., says that he was cured of rheumatism in his feet and legs by taking Swift's Specific. This was after he had tried many other remedies, both internal and external, and paid many doctor's bills.

SWIFT'S SPECIFIC has saved me years of untold misery by relieving a partial paralysis in my left side. This was after I had been treated by best physicians in St. Louis and Chicago. The trouble was caused by some derangement of my blood, which has been corrected by S. S. S. T. A. SHEPPART, Sherman, Tex.

B. O. GILLETT, of Purdy, Mo., says Swift's Specific cured him of Eczema on his limbs and body. He took only two small bottles.

Jack's Visit to the Natural History Society.

One wet evening, however, Willie Ransom got Jack to go, just because there was nothing else to do. There was a short paper being read on "Fish Scales," and a number of them were mounted for microscopical examination, of course with a low power, say inch and half inch. Anything relating to fish or fishing was certain to gain Jack's attention, therefore a better subject could not have been selected to engage his notice. Besides, Jack had never yet even looked through a microscope! He felt a bit ashamed of this now; but there were a couple of microscopes present, and Jack determined to have a good look through them. The scales of different sorts of British fishes were on view. Of course, fish scales are common enough; but who would think that each kind has its own pattern of scale, and that you could tell a species of fish by its scales?

The paper showed that the scales of fishes were composed of the same material, chitine, as the feathers of birds, or the hair and nails of animals—a kind of substance only found in the animal kingdom, and never in the vegetable; that these scales are developed in little pockets in the fish's skin, which you can plainly see for yourself when a herring is scaled. They are arranged all over the fish's body like the tiles covering a roof, partly overlapping each other, as is seen by one part of the scale being often different from the other.

Jack looked through the microscope and was delighted. He was always a reverent minded boy, and the sight broke on his mind like a new revelation. How exquisitely chased and beautiful were the markings, lines, dots and other peculiarities! Then the scales which run along the middle line of the fish were shown him, and the ducts perforating them, out of which the mucus flows to anoint the fish's body, and thus reduce the friction of its rapid movement through the water. The lad was half bewildered at the possibility of the new knowledge. "Could anybody get to know about these things?" he asked Willie, who told him of course he could, if he would only take a little trouble.—Dr. J. D. Taylor in Popular Science Monthly.

That Catankerous Old Woman

Described in the nursery ballad, who "lived upon nothing but victuals and drink," and yet "would never be quiet," was undoubtedly troubled with chronic indigestion. Her victuals, like those of many other elderly persons whose digestive powers have become impaired, didn't agree with her. This was before the era of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, or some one of her numerous friends and relatives would undoubtedly have persuaded her to try the great specific for dyspepsia, constipation and biliousness. This would have been a measure of self-protection on their part, for she would soon have been cured and ceased to disturb them with her clamor. The most obstinate cases of indigestion, with its attendent heartburn, flatulence, constant uneasiness of the stomach and of the nerves, are completely overcome by this sovereign remedy. Chills and fever and bilious remittent, rheumatism and kidney troubles are also relieved by it.

Be sure and take advantage of the pleasant weather and good roads to invite your wife, daughter or sweetheart for a drive to Agua Caliente Springs where the flowers bloom, the birds sing and the best of refreshments can be procured at any time of the day or any season of the year. *

Mrs. Jos. Lake, Brockway Centre, Mich., writes: "Liver complaint and indigestion made my life a burden and came near ending my existence. For more than four years I suffered untold agony. I was reduced almost to a skeleton, and hardly had strength to drag myself about. All kinds of food distressed me, and only the most delicate could be digested at all. Within the time mentioned several physicians treated me without giving relief. Nothing that I took seemed to do any permanent good until I began the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, which has produced wonderful results. Soon after commencing to take the Sarsaparilla I could see an in my condition, my appetite began to return and with it came the ability to digest all the food taken, my strength improved each day, and after a few months of faithful attention to your directions, I found myself a well woman, able to attend to all household duties. The medicine has given me a new lease of life, and I cannot thank you too much."

"We, the undersigned, citizens of Brockway Centre, Mich., hereby certify that the above statement, made by Mrs. Lake, is true in every particular and entitled to full credence."—O. P. Chamberlain, G. W. Waring, C. A. Wells, Druggist.

"My brother, in England, was, for a long time, unable to attend to his occupation, by reason of sores on his foot. I sent him Ayer's Almanac and the testimonials it contained induced him to try Ayer's Sarsaparilla. ing for intoxicating liquors. He had been working for Wilson chopping wood for some time. He was well-known in this vicinity, and so far as known has no relatives in this country. Thos. Wilson is also known to many people in this valley, where he has resided for many years. He is rough in exterior but those who knew him best never dreamed he was capable of taking the life of a fellow being in such a heinous manner. He, like his victim, was addicted to occasional sprees. The news of the killing spread like wild-fire all over the valley, and it is said that there was talk of lynching in Glen Ellen. But the more conservative people of that burg were in favor of the law taking its course and their counsels prevailed, and thus was another tragedy averted which would have been a blot upon the fair name of Sonoma Valley.

It appears that Wilson, after requesting Johnson to take him to Santa Rosa and deliver him over to the Sheriff, which task Johnson declined, met Messrs. Cole and Lafferty, and made the same request of them. They thereupon took him in their go-cart to Santa Rosa and delivered him over to Sheriff Colgan.

On Tuesday last Coroner Tivnen visited the scene of the tragedy and held an inquest over the remains of Wilson's victim. There were but two witnesses examined, to-wit: Dr. H. H. Davis and Chas. Johnson:

The latter's testimony was as follows:

Q.—Where do you live?
A.—About four miles from Glen Ellen.
Q.—What business do you follow?
A.—Farming.
Q.—Did you know deceased during his life time?
A.—Yes. For many years.
Q.—What was his name?
A.—Joseph Webber.
Q.—Do you know whether he had any quarrel with Thos. Wilson?
A.—Had some quarrelsome words with Webber about 6 o'clock Sunday morning June 30th, 1889.
Q.—Do you know what the quarrel was about?
A.—About cording wood chopped for Wilson by deceased.
Q.—When did you see Joseph Webber and Tom Wilson last together and alive?
A.—About 5 o'clock yesterday (Monday) evening. They were singing outside of my house.
Q.—At what time did the tragedy take place?
A.—Tom Wilson came to my gate and unsaddled his horse and told me he had killed the d—n Dutchman, Webber. "I could not cut his throat with my knife so I went and got your shot-gun and shot him." I told him I did not believe him. He said: "Come and I will show where he lays, and then we went to the house. There lay Joseph Webber drawing his breath for the last time, and Tom Wilson said: "Now, you see, I have killed him." He said, "Take me prisoner." I told him to keep away from me. Wilson said, "I have done the murder and want to be hung. I went to the stable and took the harness off my animals and put a saddle on one of them and went to Glen Ellen. Wilson said, "We will both ride on the mule together," and I told him no, to keep away from me. He then told me to go to Glen Ellen and tell Constable Crofoot to come and take him, he had murdered a man, and I will will you my team and wagon and Chas. Wilson my ranch.
Q.—Do you know what countryman Webber was?
A.—He was a German.
Q.—Do you know about what his age was?
A.—He told me he was 62 years old.
Q.—What was the condition of Wilson and Webber at 5 o'clock P. M., July 1st. Were they sober, or had they been drinking?
A.—They had been drinking very heavily after one o'clock.
Q.—Was there any other parties there except yourself, Webber and Wilson.
A.—Not that I am aware of, I was about three hundred yards away from them at the time of the shooting.

This ended his testimony. Dr. Davis testified that he was a practicing physician and had examined the body of Webber. He found that the knife wound was not a mortal one and stated the gunshot wound was the cause of death and that the man had evidently died instantly after being shot.

The jury thereupon brought in the following verdict:

We, the jury, find that the name of deceased is Joseph Webber, that he is sixty-two years of age and a native of Germany. That he came to his death on the first day of July, 1889, in Sonoma Township, county of Sonoma, State of California, and that deceased came to his death by a gunshot wound inflicted by Thos. Wilson, and we charge the said Thos. Wilson with willful murder.

The body of the murdered man presented a most sickening sight. He lay where he had been killed. There was a long, gaping wound across the throat, the blood from which had saturated the upper portion of his clothing. His head and face were fearfully mutilated by the shotgun which must have pressed against his face when discharged. His teeth had been blown up into the roof of the mouth, one eye and a portion of the nose was gone and his skull was cracked from base to

The music by the Sonoma Valley Band, composed for the most part of young men who were born and raised in Sonoma, was equal to that of any brass band of an equal number of pieces in the State.

After the literary exercises there was martial music, foot-racing, dancing, etc., which was kept up until 5:30 P. M., and by 6 o'clock Cooper's Grove, which had been the scene of so much life and animation through the day was deserted.

The picnic over people flocked into town to attend the ball at Weyl's Hall which was a great success. J. J. Wystyrk, Second Assistant Foreman of Engine Co. No. 1, of Santa Rosa, with Miss Emma Fick led the grand march, in which some 75 couple participated. The floor was under the excellent management of Jas. Albertson, Secretary of the Sonoma Fire Company.

Mr. M. A. Flynn of the Sonoma House furnished the menu, which was pronounced excellent by those present. As a caterer on such occasions Mr. Flynn cannot be beat, and it makes us hungry to say so.

At Eden Dale, the residence of Hon. Robt. Howe, there was a fine display of fire works, which was witnessed by a number of invited friends of the family. Mr. Howe and his son-in-law, Chas. A number of Sonoma dairymen were up last week looking for farms suitable for dairy purposes.

At a meeting by the Native Sons of this place, held June 8th, C. H. Bruning was elected President and Robt. P. Hill Secretary.

The cool shade of the trees is eagerly sought for at this place. The thermometer at 100 degrees and warm as can be are the reasons.

Dancing is the order of the day. Quite a number of dances have been held in this vicinity and are all well attended and greatly enjoyed by all.

Mr. S. Lewis, the inventor of a new smoke stack for locomotives, made a trial trip of his invention last night and from what we can learn it worked satisfactorily.

The young folks and campers greatly enjoyed a dance at the Pavilion last Saturday evening. Quite a number of ladies and gentlemen were present and the music, being of a grindstone pattern, was superb. Jerry was at the helm and says that he would rather play than turn a grindstone. We are certainly aware of the fact. Old Timer.

His Business Booming.

Probably no one thing has caused such a general revival of trade at E. Wegner's drug store as his giving away to his customers of so many free trial bottles of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption. His trade is simply enormous in this very valuable article from the fact that it always cures and never disappoints. Coughs, Colds, Asthma, Bronchitis, Croup, and all throat and lung diseases quickly cured. You can test it before buying by getting a trial bottle free, large size $1. Every bottle warranted.

Epoch.

The transition from long, lingering and painful sickness to robust health marks an epoch in the life of the individual. Such a remarkable event is treasured in the memory and the agency whereby the good health has been attained is gratefully blessed. Hence it is that so much is heard in praise of Electric Bitters. So many feel they owe their restoration to health, to the use of the Great Alterative and Tonic. If you are troubled with any disease of Kidney, Liver or Stomach, of long or short standing you will surely find relief by use of Electric Bitters. Sold at 50c. and $1 per bottle at E. Wegner's drug store.

HARPER'S BAZAR will continue to maintain its reputation as an unequalled family journal. Its art illustrations are of the highest order, its literature is of the choicest kind, and its Fashion and Household Departments of the most practical and economical character. Its pattern-sheet supplements and fashion plates alone will save its readers ten times the cost of subscription, and its articles on decorative art, social etiquette, house-keeping, cookery, etc., make it indispensible to every household. Its bright, short stories, and timely essays, are among the best published; and not a line is admitted to its columns that could offend the most fastidious taste. Among the attractions of the new volume will be serial stories by Mrs. Frances Hodgson Burnett, Mrs. Alexander, William Black and Thomas Hardy, and a series of papers on nursery management by Mrs. Christine Terhune Herrick.

A BIG STRIDE!

Up to last year we pursued the stereotyped plan in vogue everywhere of buying our furniture, etc., from the San Francisco jobbers. That entailed upon our customers the payment of three separate profits, viz: the manufacturer's, the jobbers' and our own. As freight can only be brought from the East in full car-load lots to get the advantage of car-load rates, it is rather a farfie undertaking to attempt to import directly, but we decided to try it.

With many misgivings, in July of last year we sent our first car-load order to the Eastern manufacturers. The car was loaded at the door of the factory in Michigan and came straight through, arriving in August. The quality of the goods and their prices was as much a surprise to us as to our customers. We could sell them Eastern Hardwood Furniture at about the price they have been paying for cheap California Pine Furniture. It is needless to say that

Our Venture was a Success.

We continue to send in our orders, and shipments now reach us monthly and we are dealing in but little else. For these rersons we are now selling

Furniture at Less than San Francisco Wholesale Prices,

And in proof of this statement we ask intending purchasers to come and see our goods, get our figures and before buying compare them with San Francisco prices, and then there can be no question.

We are selling Fine Antique Oak Bed-Room Sets of eight pieces for $35, that are quoted in San Francisco at $45.

Square Top Extension Tables in Hardwood for $16, that are sold in San Francisco for $22.

Body Brussels Carpet we quote you at prices you have heretofore paid for Tapestry.

Smyrna Rugs, Portiers and Window Shades are also among our Eastern importations, and we give the same advantage in these lines. In short we are now giving Sonoma county people the middlemen or jobbers profit on everything in our line.

An Irish Soldier Who Knew His Matters of local or [illegible] to Die—A War Reminiscence. On the day of that battle [illegible] of advertising climbed the heights on the [illegible] and augbank of the Rappahannock [illegible] Fredericksburg, and halted [illegible] of the city summit near some heavy [illegible] is published. we looked down upon the [illegible] and in every splendor pontoon [illegible] upon its [illegible] able portion [illegible] our eyes to correspond [illegible] re ready to just back of the city, frowning [illegible] non and breastworks and [illegible] to the or-Confederate soldiery, a painful [illegible] enance of powering sense of the impos[illegible] other movebefore us and the deadliness of [illegible] of outside [illegible] undertaking in all its horrible [illegible] whom [illegible] difficult to induce to subscribe money for the establishment of promising enterprises, but nevertheless contribue little or nothing to a means of greater importance and efficiency in the building up of their town—the support and improvement of its newspapers.

There is no question but that the newspaper of any town or city may be made the most effective possible agency in its development and prosperity. The efforts and influence of either individuals or organizations are at best but spasmodic and transient, but the newpaper works on steadily and incessantly. The individual agitator of the board of trade reach only a comparatively limited field of opportunity—only those to whom the particular effort may be directed; but the newspaper reaches out in every direction, and carries its influence to hosts of unknown and unsuspected watchers of opporting ities. Among [illegible] of capital.—Exchange.

Events That Made the Goose Follow.

The old story of the Maine soldier who was caught skinning the sheep and remarked that no sheep could bite him and live reminds a contributor to The Oxford Advertiser of a veteran of the "unpleasantness" of twenty years ago, who regularly draws his check from a postoffice on the banks of the Androscoggin. At one time while in the enemy's country the order "no foraging" was issued. About dusk our hero might have been seen on a very rapid retreat from the rear of a farm house near by, closely pursued by a gander with wings outspread, whose feet seemed to scarcely touch the ground, and from whose beak issued angry screams. The fugitive was not at all reassured by the cries of the owner, "Hold on, soldier, he won't hurt you!" The soldier never stopped until he reached his friends, who, of course, relieved him from his pursuer with the aid of the butt of a musket. Who removed the hook with the cod line attached from the mouth of the unfortunate gander still remains a mystery, but several witnesses say it was there all the same.—Lewiston Journal.

A Violet Luncheon.

Here is the description in a London newspaper of a violet luncheon given by a Chicago girl to her girl friends: "The luncheon consisted of ten courses served by a caterer. The menu was matchless. The Chicago people live well. There was a long, flat, narrow mirror down the table, surrounded by a border of blue and white violets edged with a fringe of maiden hair ferns. The corners of the cloth were tied with white and violet satin ribbon. The young hostess (whose mother did not appear) wore white cashmere with cuffs and collar of violet velvet, and she carried a white lace fan on which was painted violets. By the plate of each guest was a small gilded wicker basket filled with violets white and blue. A string band, harp and violins, played softly while the girl guests ate and laughed and chatted."—Detroit Free Press.

Two Dog Stories.

My wife was followed a few days ago, while going through a new house, by our bull terrier pug and by a collie dog. Mug, the pug, became frantic when he was unable to climb a high step. The collie was deeply troubled, but in a few moments lifted Mug up the step by the nape of his neck.

For a number of years my father made western trips of several weeks' duration. His dog Jack would invariably meet him at the station on his return. The mystery to us was how the dog could tell of his arrival, unless, indeed, he understood our talk of the day before.—Forest and Stream.

A Peculiar Affection of the Pores.

William Shockey, of Waverly, O., suffers from a peculiar affection of the pores. When he works or exercises the right half of his body perspires so freely that his clothing becomes as completely saturated as if water had been poured upon him, while the left side remains perfectly dry. The line of demarcation is as exactly drawn as if he had been surveyed by an expert. The line comes across the scalp, forehead and nose, extending down the breast and abdomen, dividing him exactly in halves.

From One Mystery to Another.

Jones—Matilda, where is that latch key I handed you this morning?

Mrs. Johns—In the pocket of my dress hanging up over there.

Jones (five minutes later, desperately)—And now, Matilda, will you please tell me where to find the pocket in your dress?—St. Louis Humorist.

L. O. O. F.—An Instance of Fraternal Care.

Between thirty and forty years ago, Capt. J. G. Allender, then of Yuba City, Sutter county, joined Yuba Lodge No. 5, I. O. O. F. He was then a hale, vigorous man in the noonday of life. An ardent admiration for the tenets of that Order caused him to continue his membership throughout all the long years intervening up to the present time. He was and has ever been a man of great moral excellence and appreciated the value of that fraternity. Regularly he paid his dues and assessments and never failed to contribute to the relief of distress appealing to him. His health was perfect at all times until within a few years, and, until then, he had never been the subject of fraternal care. He had always been a man in good financial circumstances and was able to aid worthy distresses. But time waits on no one, and, in his inexorable march, Captain Allender was carried along into the "sere and yellow leaf," with which there came physical infirmities. Yet not then did he appeal to the brethern of his Order for aid. A few years ago, however, he met with an accident that permanently disabled him. Age enforced his retirement from business and his money vanished in the care of an invalid wife, and he then found it necessary to inform his brethern of his condition. Quick and without hesitation or investigation, old Yuba No. 5, answered the call. Capt. Allender was then and yet remains a resident of Lake county, but his faithful Lodge is constantly attentive and full of care. Lower Lake Lodge, No. 130, I. O. O. F., was instructed at the time of his affliction to spare neither money or care in their attention to that veteran of their Lodge, and carefully has Lower Lake Lodge regarded that duty. The old gentleman is monthly in regular receipt of that bread cast upon the waters of life many, many years ago, and much more, for affectionate enquiry is made into his condition and a sincere fraternal interest maifested [illegible] money paid.

A party of Santa Rosa ladies and gentlemen started on a pleasant days' drive on the coast last Sunday and while going down one of the steep mountain roads of that section the horses ran away and a frightful accident was averted by the coolness and skill of Capt. P. N. Stofen who was driving.

His name is R. J. McKinney; his residence is Woodbury, Hill county, Texas; his statement May, 1889: My little son was cured by S. S. MR. JOHN KING, of Jackson, Miss., says that he was cured of rheumatism in his feet and legs by taking Swift's Specific. This was after he had tried many other remedies, both internal and external, and paid many doctor's bills.

SWIFT'S SPECIFIC has saved me years of untold misery by relieving a partial paralysis in my left side. This was after I had been treated by best physicians in St. Louis and Chicago. The trouble was caused by some derangement of my blood, which has been corrected by S. S. S. T. A. SHEPPART, Sherman, Tex.

B. O. GILLETT, of Purdy, Mo., says Swift's Specific cured him of Eczema on his limbs and body. He took only two small bottles.

That Catankerous Old Woman

Described in the nursery ballad, who "lived upon nothing but victuals and drink," and yet "would never be quiet," was undoubtedly troubled with chronic indigestion. Her victuals, like those of many other elderly persons whose digestive powers have become impaired, didn't agree with her. This was before the era of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, or some one of her numerous friends and relatives would undoubtedly have persuaded her to try the great specific for dyspepsia, constipation and biliousness. This would have been a measure of self-protection on their part, for she would soon have been cured and ceased to disturb them with her clamor. The most obstinate cases of indigestion, with its attendent heartburn, flatulence, constant uneasiness of the stomach and of the nerves, are completely overcome by this sovereign remedy. Chills and fever and bilious remittent, rheumatism and kidney troubles are also relieved by it.

Be sure and take advantage of the pleasant weather and good roads to invite your wife, daughter or sweetheart for a drive to Agua Caliente Springs where the flowers bloom, the birds sing and the best of refreshments can be procured at any time of the day or any season of the year. *

Steel Mower.
Lightest, Strongest, Most Durable, Cheapest, Less Complicated and without exception the Best Mower in the World.
The lifting arrangement of the machine is the most complete that has ever been invented. A gag lever is pivoted to the shoe hinge, one end resting on a bracket on the shoe, the other end attached to the lifting lever by a rod which, passing through a large coiled spring mounted on the lifting lever carries both ends of the cutter bar lightly on the ground.
This Machine is the best Mower in the World.

Monarch Cooking.

Mr. A. Robinson of Gilroy, California, writes under date of May 27th, as follows: "I would particularly recommend your Monarch Gasoline Stove No. 107, as every one I have sold has given satisfaction in Baking and Cooking. My customers are much pleased with its compact shape, safety, simplicity and durability. The New Fuel-saving Cut-off Cap pleases the ladies, as it reduces the expense of using gasoline. This fact alone places the New Monarch Stove No. 107 far in advance of all others, and then the New Automatic Safety attachment makes it the safest stove in use. I consider it the boss. When I sell one to a lady who has a married sister in this vicinity I know I will soon have another customer for one more No. 107." Ask your dealer for it, or send for catalogue to JOHN F. MYERS & Co., 863 Market St., San Francisco.

Consumption Surely Cured.

TO THE EDITOR—Please inform your readers that I have a positive remedy for the above named disease. By its timely use thousands of hopeless cases have been permanently cured. I shall be glad to send two bottles of my remedy FREE to any of your readers who have consumption if they will send me their express and postoffice address. Respectfully,

The Fine Carriage Horse
COMBINATION
Will make the Season of 1889 at the UNION STABLES, Sonoma.
Season Closing July 1st.
DESCRIPTION.
Combination is a fine, large stallion 17½ hands high, weighs 1500 pounds, five years old, a dark rich chestnut with small white star on forehead.
Pedigree:
COMBINATION was sired by Young George M. Patchen, by California Patchen, by Geo. M. Patchen Jr. His dam was from a thoroughbred mare called Copper Bottom, imported from Kentucky and sired by Signal of Marysville.
All wishing to raise horses for use and profit would do well to examine this horse. Fine carriage horses bring double the money that others do in any market and for farm work are unsurpassed.
TERMS:
TWENTY DOLLARS for the season. Insurance, THIRTY DOLLARS, payable when the mare is known to be in foal.
The best of care will be taken to guard against accidents and escapes, but no liability assumed.
Reference:
Harry Meeks of Haywards, has some very fine colts from this horse.
